[3] Agent Vinod is an Indian action film from 2012. i written by Sriram Raghavan i Arijit Biswas. The film borrows its name from the same 1977 film starring Saif Ali Khan and Kareena Kapoor. [4] Plan The summary of the design of this article may be too long or excessively detailed. Please help improve it by removing unnecessary details and making it more concise. (August 2020) (Learn how and when to remove this template message) In the Dasht-E-maadar desert in kotha Afghanistan, inside a Taliban camp, ISI official Colonel Huzefa (Shahbaz Khan) interrogates a man (Saif Ali Khan), who is believed to be a RAW agent. The man gives details of RAW operations in Afghanistan in exchange for money and safe passage across the border. He betrays his colleague Major Rajan (Ravi Kissen), who also infiltrated the camp. It's just a ruse, because they both beat their captives and fight to get out of camp. Along the way, they rescue a girl named Farah (Maryam Zakaria). In New Delhi, Agent Vinod enters RAW headquarters to meet with Chief Hassan Nawaz (B.P. Singh). Nawaz shows him major Rajan's last message from Russia. Just as he finished his message, Rajana is killed by a man. Nawaz asks Vinodo to find out what '242' is. Vinod travels to St. Petersburg and enters a nightclub owned by the misplaced gangster Abu Nazer (Ram Kapoor). He managed to catch and interrogate Nazer, who tells him freddie khambatta must transfer a million to Morocco. Vinod almost catches Nazer's men, but he manages to escape, killing Nazer. Vinod boards a flight to Tangiers, Morocco. Freddie Khambatta is a pilot. Vinod picks him up from the airport to take his place. As Freddie vinod meets local mafia boss David Kazan (Prem Chopra), accompanied by his personal (Pakistani) doctor Ruby Mendes (Kareena Kapoor). Kazan suspects Vinodo and Ruby should give him the truth serum. Vinod didn't say anything about being a RAW agent and killing Abu Nazer. Kazan is consciously in the face of Vinod, but Vinod manages to convince him that he is Freddie Khambatta, explaining that he had to kill Abu Nazer to protect the mission. He managed to hack into Kazan's phone and find out that an MI6 agent would come to Morocco the next day. Meanwhile, Vinod approaches Ruby and tries to figure out what '242 is'. Ruby Actually, Iram Parveen Bilal, a British-Pakistani who works undercover for isi. Vinod goes to meet an MI6 agent and finds him murdered in his room with strong instructions that ruby committed the murder. He gets an invitation to a private auction from the murdered agent's room. He learned that a number of international terrorist groups were gathering at an antiques auction in Marakkeś to buy the 242nd Floor. Vinod brings Ruby to the auction, where Kazan is also present along with Jagadishwar Broom (Dhritiman Chatterjee). Vinod spots the LTTE agent he met earlier, and learns from him that 242 is actually the detonator for a nuclear device, disarming in an antique amount of Rubayyata Omar Khayyama. There's an emergency war, and Kazan manages to secure the detonator. In Chaman, Baluchistan, the head of the ISI (Rajat Kapoor) murders Colonel Huzefa, who is actually part of a group of corrupt ISI colonels planning an attack on India. In Morocco, Kazan locks the detonator with a password and hands it over to a colonel (Adil Hussain) who has arrived in Morocco. Iram bumps into the real Freddie Khambatto and finds out that Vinod is a RAW agent. They managed to escape from the men they were trying to kill, both agreeing to work together to prevent the nuclear device from falling into the wrong hands. Ruby returns to the Kazan property to find out she's been overrun, and Kazan shot the colonel. The Colonel catches Ruby and asks her to reveal agent Vinod's whereabouts. He frames the sniper next to the hotel where Agent Vinod will meet With Ruby. The sniper shoots at him, but Vinod manages to escape and is taken to a hospital. The killer comes to the hospital in a doctor's patch and tries to give an injection of poison to Vinod. Vinod spots a scorpion tattoo on the doctor's forearm and beats him and kills him. Then he gets out of the hospital to find Iram. The colonel, who now owns the detonator, came to Riga in Latvia to get the bomb. He's going to get Iram to seduce the airport security officer to get his id. Iramu succeeds, and the colonel provides a card to his man, who will transport the bomb from Latvia. The colonel also planted the bomb, so the airport employee and Iram died in the explosion. Vinod arrives, and when he interrogates Iram, an explosion occurs, which gives Iram the commitment to frame her colonel. Vinod and Iram join hands and try to catch the colonel and the bomb. Iram tells Vinod that the colonel called for a meeting in Karachi with fugitive mobster Taimur Paso (Gulshan Grover), who may also be on a case of aroach. The Colonel gets Rubaiyyat and tells his men to kill Vinod and Iram. But Vinod manages to kill them all. Iram and Vinod reach Karachi, where they meet Farah, who is a dancer. With her help, they enter the wedding that Pasha attended. That's where they found out that Colonel Huzefa and Don had agreed to break the nuclear device. Karachi to India via sea route. But they're captured by Colonel Huzefa, who they find out is the target of the New Delhi bomb. They managed to escape and get to New Delhi, where they are trying to find the location of the bomb. They find that the colonel remains with the ISI/Lashkar agent, who is an old professor (Lalit Parimoo). Iram finds the professor's map, which is from the bus route that Jimmy's taking with an armed bomb. Iram rushes to an exhibition where the colonel hides like a pilot. Iram encounters a colonel and is shot, but he warns the Indian security forces that they kill him. In the end, Vinod traces the bomb and takes the bomb into a helicopter to detonate it as far away from the city as possible. Iram realizes that David Kazan has set the password for the detonator and asks Vinod to try the name of Kazan's camel-Zilleh. The bomb is deactivated, but Iram dies from gunshot wounds. Later Vinod sees a video showing Broome planning an attack. Vinod accuses Broome and the Zeus group of murdering millions for making money on world stock exchanges and starting a nuclear war on the continent for geopolitical reasons. The broom is suing Vinod and tells him that world affairs are too complicated to be understood by a low-level policeman. And Vinod wears a wire, and the London Lashkar-e-Toiba cell listens. Aware that Broom was manipulated by almost starting a war with India, with the Pakistani government violently ruled, the Laskars sent a suicide bomber (Arif Zakaria) to assassinate Broom at a function in his honor. The broom was killed, but posthumously killed as a great philanthropist. On the beach in Cape Town, a beautiful Russian girl who first acquired a nuclear device is seen sunbathing. He's looking for Agent Vinod, who's laughing at her. Looks like Vinod's moved on to the next mission. [5] In an interview with Bolwoody Hungama described it as a realistic film... full of action pieces, enthusiasms and characters. [5] On 30 May 2010, the Director reported on Filming officially began in Mumbai. Filming later continued in Morocco[6] and Latvia. [7] Pakistani film director Iram Parveen Bilal, who was met by director Sriram Raghavan at the Indian Film Festival in Los Angeles, was the inspiration for Kareen's character in 2008. [8] The soundtrack The film was recorded by Pritam. Stolen the Night (I'll Do the Talking Tonight) is a partial interpolation of rasputin from 1978, composed by the German disco band Boney M.[9] According to IBN Live, Raabta is the film's most beautiful song. [10] The version of Raabte used in the film is Night in the Motel version and is incorrectly referred to as a Hamsika Iyer song when in fact aditi Singh Sharma sang the song. In addition, the song Habibi Ya Nour El Ain performed by Alabina, Ishtar, was used behind the scenes when agents Vinod and Freddie Khambatta were seen walking from Morocco airport. However, the song and artist are not attributed. The version of Dil Mera Muft Ka used in the film is not available on the soundtrack. The soundtrack also does not include the title song seen in govind bolo gopal bolo. Due to popular demand, it was uploaded to YouTube with the T-Series 29. Habibi Ya Nour El Ain Alabina, Ishtar4:10Tal length:51:24 Film was released on March 23, 2012. A few days before his release, pakistan's Central Committee of Film Censors banned the film because of various controversial references to Pakistan's spy agency Inter-Services Intelligence. [12] Kaveree Bamzai's critical reception from India Today gave the film a mixed review, saying, if only Sriram Raghavan had been weakened on his knees at the thought of love, Agent Vinod would have been smarter, sharper. Movie. [13] Gaurav Malani of The Times of India called the film above average and said, The film is fun, but not entirely. Agent Vinod gets a nod, though not whole-hearted! Blassey Chettiar of the Daily News and Analysis evaluated the film with 3 out of 5 stars. Director Sriram Raghavan (Ek Hasina Thi, Johnny Gaddar) delivers a shreminated package, suave the main character by slogging out to picture-perfect locations, packing a punch tu i tu, buzzing off on sexy motors, sexy vehicles and on-site copter. with a day's work. [15] Kunal Guha of Yahoo! he rated the film as 1 out of 5 stars, saying, Let's just say foreign pugs, weapons of destruction of the world, designer clothes and not-so-tortured interrogations don't cumulatively justify Agent Vinodo as an exciting experience of watching movies. [16] Raja Sen of Rediff gave the film 2.5 out of 5 stars, saying, As a film, Agent Vinodo should be softened by a disappointing, licked and well-made throw to a spy brass that feels both hasty and too little conceived. [17] Anupama Chopra of the Hindustan Times gave 2.5 out of 5, which was captured:The result is that Agent Vinod never becomes more than the sum of his parts, and even though he picks up speed in the second half, he leaves you both exhausted and disgruntled. [18] Mrigank Dhaniwala of Koimoi also gave the film 2 out of 5 stars, commenting: Agent Vinod is a daring attempt that went wrong; certainly not something that the game in its entirety ... (and) it doesn't get anywhere near Bond or Bourne's string of Hollywood movies. [19] Zee News commented, Agent Vinod is a real attempt to have fun in a perisuming way. But somehow there's no shortage of him being declared a great job. Beware of your elegant presentation, has nothing else to offer. [20] Khalid Mohammed of the Deccan Chronicle rated the film with 2 out of 5 stars, commenting: The suggestion: if you get into it at best, the average Agent Vinod wears a large thermos of coffee to stay awake. [21] Rajeev Masand of CNN-IBN reviews 2/5 feels Agent Vinod with so many diverse influences that he never finds his own separate identity. [22] Richard Kuipers of Variety commented that this big budget exercise bears all the signs of a franchise waiting; with an injection of elana says Maibaum brought in bond series, such a company could prove successful. Independent Online from South Africa gives 3.5 out of 5 and says the film's undeniably cool and entertaining spy thriller Box Office On its opening day has the film collected ₹94.1 million ($1.3 million) at the box office. [23] The film showed less growth over the next two days[24][25] which ultimately grossed about ₹180 million (US$2.5 million) in the first weekend. [26] Agent Vino ₹d made ₹ a total of ₹ ₹546 million in 2019 (equivalent to ₹₹830 million or ₹12 million in 2019) in 2019. The film was announced as Flopa at the box office. [3] [27] Prior to his release, Agent Vinod ran into trouble when saif Ali Khan's fight with businessman Iqbal Meer Sharma was wrapped up as a publicity for the film. However, Khan vehemently denied the fight was such, saying: I don't believe in such a negative publicity. We'd rather have our posters and promos create the right kind of buzzing. [29] During the promotion of the film in Bhopoii, Khan was shown black flags that were triggered by changes that brought them into the management of the Pataudi family's real estate in the Middle East. [30] The Iranian band Barobax sued the director of Pritama a week before its release, claiming that he had lifted the song, Pyaar Ki Pungi, from a former Soosan Khanoom song. However, two weeks after the film was released, the band publicly apologised to Pritam and in the end the two tracks were different, the court case was withdrawn. [31] The film was banned in Pakistan as it referenced part of ISI's involvement in jihadist groups and terrorist activities. To that, Khan responded: This is a real kind of thriller. We have shown that there are some negative elements towards India in Pakistan and their censor has a problem with that. We have shown some of the most wanted criminals, those who are in Pakistan, which is a known fact. Maybe they're offended. But in the end, we want a RAW agent to win, and the bad guys want to lose. If they are uncomfortable with this, they should inform them of the fact that they are banning Agent Vinod in Pakistan. One week after the theatrical release, Agent Vinod ran into another plagiarism problem. The reports said that the film featured songs from older films without first gaining permission from producers. The tracks were Aasmaan Pe Hai Khuda from Ramesh Saigal's Phir Subah Hogi (1958), Meri Jaan Maine Kaha from Ramesh Behl's The Train (1970) and Rakamma from Thalapati Mani Ratnama (1991). The owners of these songs were not credited to the film. Saif Ali Khan later paid for the rights, explaining it as a last-minute coordination problem.
